

1 I say to you that we have got to look at the duties,
2 now, that are suggested for the Attorney General. It seems
3 to me, and I say this humbly, that Solomon in all his wisdom,
4 and possibly assisted by his thousand wives, couldn't go 5 on and carry out the duties that are here suggested for 6 the Attorney General.

7 I go further and say as an attorney that I am 8 concerned, gravely concerned over the colloquy that we 9 had here as to the conflict of interest that is inherent 10 in the Attorney General as we have it proposed to us.

11 It seems to me that it has been said too often 12 to bear any question a man cannot serve two masters, and 13 here we have the opportunity in this Constitution to set 14 up an Attorney General so there will be no question about 15 who he is serving. He will be serving the Governor of the 16 State, who will be the Chief Executive Officer charged 17 with the duties of that office.

18 I say to you that we have heard much of com-
19 promise here. . We have heard a great deal that goes under 20 the name of compromise, but I would say to you that the 21 compromise that Lee made at Appomattox and Cornwallis made
